Introduction

The Ministry of Finance in the United Arab Emirates is committed to making open data available to support research, innovation, and enhance transparency. This guide provides a general framework on how to use open data responsibly and effectively, while adhering to the principles of open government and the demands of the digital age.

Purpose of creating the guide

The purpose of this guide is to establish a regulatory framework for the use of open data, enabling entities and individuals to access and utilize data to support research and decision-making while ensuring compliance with relevant laws and policies and achieving the desired level of transparency.

Scope

This guide applies to all open data released by the Ministry of Finance, allowing users to access and utilize the data in compliance with local and international laws while adhering to the rights and obligations outlined in this guide.

Terms and definitions

Term	Definitions
Open Data	Data that is made available to the general public for use in accordance with the terms and conditions set out in this guide.
Federal License	The terms that define the framework for open data usage in the UAE.
User	Any entity or individual accessing and utilizing open data.

Roles and Responsibilities

Open data is made available by the Ministry of Finance in accordance with approved practices and the terms and conditions set out in this guide. Users are responsible for complying with the terms of use and acknowledging the source when publishing or using the data.

The final classification of data as open data is approved by the competent and authorized entity within the Ministry of Finance, in accordance with the applicable policies and procedures, prior to its release to the public.

The method of work

The Ministry of Finance provides open data in multiple formats, with a current focus on the Excel format to facilitate access. Users may use, distribute, and share the data freely, subject to compliance with the terms of use. The data is updated in accordance with approved practices, available resources, and applicable policies.

References

This guide is based on the Federal Open Data License of the UAE, along with the policies and regulations issued by the Ministry of Finance and complies with applicable local and international laws related to data usage.
